Free Time is Prime Time for Risky Behaviors

Are there young people in your neighborhood who are nothing more than blips on your radar screen?

Even if your children have left home or you never had kids of your own, you can have a positive influence on young people. The next time you are outside getting the mail or working in the yard, introduce yourself and learn a little of what is important. Ask how that new skateboard trick is going. Ask how their parents are. Put a name to a face and a life.

Enable the substance of your lives to add substance to a young person's life...and show them they are not invisible.

Give this "challenge" a try and let CCY know what new doors opened.
